

Sentences emphasizing final combinations; suffix combinations; IN and EN words

I was on the brink of the crucial task when I was tempted with lunch and began to sulk.

With zeal, he commanded us to jinx the session of the final treatment.

It was the weirdest merchant that was the server of the largest, roundest yardage.

The person with the velvet corset wrote the ransom note in cursive.

She threw the rancid solvent over her shoulder.

From his vantage point, he had a candid look at the fiendish dentist.

The purple sordid carpet smelled like garbage.

Pardon me as I hurdle the orchid serpent.

In earnest he gave the sermon to the dormant hermit.

The skirmish was on target between the artist and the tortoise.

This fiscal year, I plan to buy a simple yet festive caftan.

The plastic cactus was in the basket.

The active hostage ran rampant.

Graceful as he may be, he is not punctual, exquisite, or lonesome.

Did you consume the caffeine drink as a perverse demonstration of mischief?

The melodic lecture was the composition of the joint venture.

Extinguish your righteous, anarchist thoughts about the liverwurst breakfast.

I intend to increase the input to the insane inmate.

My instinct is to send you an invoice to inquire about the income.

Please enable me to entice and enthuse the entire class.

Do you enjoy or endure my endeavor to enlighten you?

You are so gracious and ambitious to serve this luscious pie.

He acts anxious and obnoxious over that scrumptious cake.